WHAT IS CRIME STOPPERS

From 1976 until today, how Crime Stoppers began and where it is now.

Crime Stoppers is a community, media and police co-operative program designed to involve the public in the fight against crime. Crime Stoppers provides citizens with methods to anonymously supply the police with information about a crime or potential crime. A reward of up to $2000 is offered to anyone providing information, which leads to an arrest, or the recovery of stolen property, or the seizure of illegal drugs. The success of Crime Stoppers is also dependent on the support provided by local media. Unsolved crimes are re-enacted and shown on television, publicized in print, or aired on local radio stations.

How did Crime Stoppers begin?

Crime Stoppers was started in 1976 in Albuquerque, New Mexico when Canadian-born Albuquerque Police Department Detective Greg MacAleese reached a dead-end in a homicide investigation. He enlisted a local television station's co-operation in producing a re-enactment of the crime and within 72 hours the police received a tip that helped solve the murder. This was the beginning of Crime Stoppers.

The first Crime Stoppers Program in Canada was formed in Calgary, Alberta in 1982. Since inception, Alberta Crime Stoppers has cleared over 26,000 criminal cases, recovered over $32 million in stolen property, and seized more than $340 million in illegal drugs.

Detective Greg MacAleese, Founder of Crime Stoppers

Stoppers as an effective crime-solving organization throughout the world, with the primary objective of the tripartite organization, Community, Media, and Law Enforcement Working Together to Solve Crime."

Who administers Crime Stoppers and how is it Funded?

A volunteer Board of Directors administers and oversees the program. They work in close cooperation with local law enforcement and the media. Crime Stoppers is a registered not-for-profit organization and is responsible for raising funds, public awareness and the disbursements of rewards. Funding and services come from citizens, corporations, clubs, and professional associations, which keep the Crime Stoppers program operational.

There are many ways to get involved with Crime Stoppers whether it be through one-time donations, corporate sponsorships, or partnerships with various fundraising events. For more details, visit your association's website through the portal at www.crimestoppers.ab

How does Crime Stoppers work?

Crime Stoppers has more than one way to assist you in providing the information we need to help solve crimes in our community.

Via Telephone line

Crime Stoppers tip line 1-800-222-8477 is staffed 24/7/365 by trained personnel, who receive, process and pass on tip information to police for investigation. Callers are given a code number, which is used in all subsequent calls, and are never asked to identify themselves or provide any personal information. It is the caller's responsibility to call back for updates and instructions on how to claim a reward.

Via World Wide Web

Persons wanting to provide information on crimes or criminals can also use the Internet, without giving up their anonymity. Logging onto the Tip Submit website (tipssubmit.com) allows tipsters to simply click and fill in an electronic form with their information. Web Tips are completely anonymous through the use of MS SQL server technology.

Via SMS Text Messaging

Sending a SMS Text message to Crime Stoppers provides a convenient and effective way to pass us your information. To text us your information anonymously simply text the keyword "tip205" for Northern Alberta, "tip250" for the Edmonton area and "tttTIPS" for Calgary and your information to CRIMES (274637).

Through encryption, Crime Stoppers will not have your phone number or any other identifying information - you will remain completely anonymous. For more information, please visit www.smscrimetips.com

What happens to my tip?

When a tip is successful, Crime Stoppers Awards Committee determines an appropriate award amount based on a number of factors including the value of the information received, the number of persons arrested, the risk to the caller and the amount of drugs or stolen property recovered.

You will be asked to call back to Crime Stoppers for updates on your tip. Tips that lead to an arrest, the recovery of stolen property or the seizure of illegal drugs are eligible for a cash reward of up to $2,000.

Follow these steps to text a tip to Crime Stoppers.

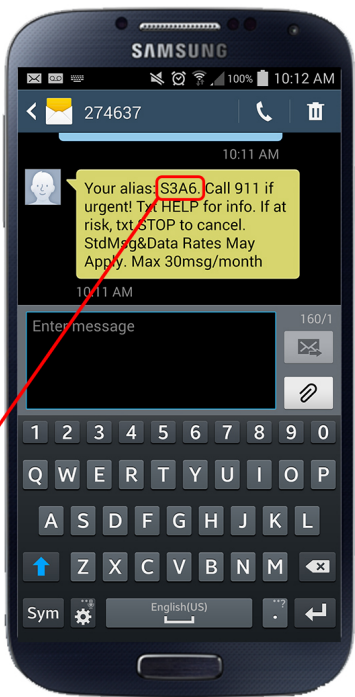

Send your message to "CRIMES" 274637

Use the tip code:
250 - Edmonton
205 - Northern Alberta
tttTIPS - Calgary

Type your tip.

An alias (tipster number) will be texted to you. Keep this number safe - this is how you will claim any rewards your tip receives.

DIRECTOR PROFILE WAYNE KRYZALKA

Written by
Annette Wagers

Crime Stoppers is run by a volunteer board of individuals who are passionate about making our communities safer places to live.

Wayne Kryzalka is one of the newest additions to the Crime Stoppers board in Edmonton and Northern Alberta. He's been on the board for just over one year, and has already contributed immensely to the success of the program in that time.

Wayne has always been aware of the Crime Stoppers program and the important part it plays in crime prevention in our communities, and was approached with an opportunity to become part of the board. "The board is such a terrific group of likeminded people who want to make a difference. It is certainly a privilege to be part of this organization," he says.

Wayne enjoys working on the board.

"I like being on the board as this is a cause that I feel impacts each and every one of us, our families, friends, and neighbours," he says. "The Crime Stoppers board is made up of many individuals from various industries that bring different skills and knowledge to the table. They are so passionate about the cause - it's infectious and very exciting!"

After growing up and graduating high school in High Prairie, Alberta, Wayne came to Edmonton to attend NAIT for the Business program. He graduated with a diploma in Finance. For the past 28 years, Wayne has been employed by ATB Financial where he currently holds the position of Managing Director, Business and Agriculture.

Wayne explains, "I am responsible for driving business results for the Greater Edmonton and Fort McMurray Market by leading a Business Banking Team of high-performing professionals in the areas of sales, credit, people management, leadership and operations."

In his spare time, Wayne is usually involved in sport or travel related activities. He enjoys being active and spending time with his wife, Michelle, playing golf, mountain biking, skiing and hiking. They also love music of all kinds and attend several festivals every year, especially the Edmonton Folk and Blues Festivals. When his children were younger, he coached them in soccer and basketball, but now that they're grown, he has traded in coaching for curling.

"I would consider myself to be a competitive curler. I also plan on running my first half marathon in September with my daughter who is a teacher and personal trainer," he says.

It seems that Wayne has a lot of activities on the go, but he also enjoys a slower-paced day, spending time doing handiwork around the house or washing and polishing the car. He also spends a lot of time after hours promoting ATB by hosting clients at a variety of events and also supporting his Edmonton team. Being involved in the community through volunteerism is a very important part of his life, and he's been involved with the Knights of Columbus and other local organizations for many years.

Wayne's passion for participating in a variety of activities and for spending his time improving his community translates into his position at Crime Stoppers. He can be counted on for spending time at golf tournaments facilitating their 50/50 hole with proceeds going to Crime Stoppers, or giving presentations to groups of EPS officers – one of his favourite activities at Crime Stoppers.

Wayne Kryzalka is the Managing Director, Business and Agriculture at ATB Financial

"My favourite thing that Crime Stoppers has done since I have been here is participating in the morning parades at various EPS divisions," he says. "This has allowed us to share information about Crime Stoppers and how the tips can help them out with their investigations. Many of the officers are relatively new to the EPS and were not familiar with how Crime Stoppers works."

In the short time that Wayne has been on the board, he has been involved in the process of rewarding tipsters for the information that leads to arrests.

"Just knowing the amount of tips that come in every month that result in arrests is quite amazing to me. Arrests made are associated with all sorts of crimes – everything from recovering stolen property, assault, drug trafficking, to crimes that impact families and, unfortunately, children."

Being able to help in a volunteer director capacity is very fulfilling and rewarding to Wayne. "All of us on the board take our roles seriously and know that crime prevention through tips and public awareness is the key to our success."

Volunteer Activities

There are so many different things that our volunteers can do to help the program. Here are a few of the different ways:

Community Engagement

We try to get out into the community as much as possible by attending various events that encourage the public to learn more about services in their communities. Each month, we go to EPS' Community Action Team events and hand out cards, brochures, and magazines to interested members of the public. REACH Edmonton hosts an annual Winter Safety Fair at West Edmonton Mall, and we've been attending that as well. These are just some examples – and we would love your help! We're always in need of people to attend these events with us and promote the Crime Stoppers program. If you enjoy meeting new people, this is a great way to do it!

Fundraising

Crime Stoppers is 100% community funded. Many companies and individuals support the program through straight donations, but we also have various fundraising initiatives to collect donations. We often do many small events – such as Golf 50/50s and BBQs – but we participate in some large-scale events as well (Casinos and our signature event: the Caught by Crime Stoppers Jail Bailout). We are always in need of volunteers to help with these events, whether it's the day-of, or whether you become part of the planning and organizing team, your skills will be very much appreciated!

Re-enactments

We film 26 different crime re-enactments per year, and in every filming, we use volunteer actors. You can choose to be added to our volunteer actor database that we refer to when we're trying to find the right person to fill the roles. Although the subject matter of the re-enactments is very serious, shoot days can be a lot of fun – working with a professional camera crew, meeting and getting to know other volunteers, and spending time doing something that is incredibly worthwhile for the program are all rewarding elements of being a volunteer actor.

Administrative

Are you gifted with administrative skills? We occasionally have need of individuals to do various paperwork, filing, mailing, phone calling, etc. tasks in the office. These things help us on an indirect level, but are by no means less important!

Writing/Research

In this magazine, we try to source out and include various articles on crime prevention and personal safety as well as articles highlighting trending crimes and how to recognize the signs and be safe. We are happy to accept writers onto our team who are interested and passionate about this subject matter to put together articles.

Do you have other skills not mentioned here? Please let us know! We are always looking for ways to grow our team and spread the word about Crime Stoppers to as many people as we can.

If you'd like to volunteer for Crime Stoppers, please fill out the Volunteer Application. Once reviewed and approved by the Board of Directors, we will give you a call to welcome you to the team!

Is your company hosting a golf tournament?

Invite Crime Stoppers
to have a 50/50 hole!

Why participate?

Crime Stoppers Association of Edmonton and Northern Alberta's program is funded entirely through public donations, without which, our program would no longer be able to operate.

We are constantly looking for new ways to fundraise and get out into the community to spread the word about our program. This also gives your organization the opportunity to show your support for a worthwhile community charity.

How it works.

Crime Stoppers will send a volunteer to your golf tournament with supplies to run a 50/50 draw. Tickets will be made available for purchase to the participants of the tournament at one of the holes. At the end of the event, a draw can be made and the winner can collect half of the money raised, with the other half going to Crime Stoppers.

Get involved.

Take advantage of this opportunity! Holding a Crime Stoppers 50/50 hole at your tournament requires very little effort on your part and will have a great impact on helping to make our communities safer places to live!

To inquire further about this opportunity,

HATE CRIMES
AN INTRODUCTION

HATE CRIMES: AN INTRODUCTION

How does hate become a crime? This article introduces the concept of “hate crimes” and how they affect the world we live in.

Hate, a word that is found in nearly every culture on earth. For years people have uttered the word on a daily basis, but only since the 1980's (Federal Bureau of Investigation) has it sent people to prison. The concept and science of the emotion behind the word hate is complex and often misunderstood, but the common definition is simple: a strong and passionate feeling of dislike for something or someone. Most people have experienced a strong feeling of dislike toward something, but that is no reason to be sentenced to prison. So how does hate become a crime?

According to the FBI, hate crimes are the same as “traditional crimes,” only that hate crimes are motivated by bias and bigotry toward a group (Federal Bureau of Investigation). The motivational bias is aimed at a particular group. The Criminal Code of Canada labels the groups that are victims of hate crimes as “identifiable groups” (Government of Canada 2015). The Criminal Code defines identifiable groups as “any section of the public distinguished by colour, race, religion, ethnic origin or sexual orientation” (Government of Canada 2015). Also, mental and physical disability, political affiliation, occupation and many other categories may be considered an identifiable group. And with the previous definitions, follow the first of many distressing struggles that lawmakers and law enforcers run into when attempting to understand and investigate hate crimes.

Everyone can be seen as a member of any number of identifiable groups; everyone has a skin color, sexual orientation and so on. Thus, when someone becomes a victim of a crime, how do we know if they were targeted because of their identifiable group? This isn't only stressful for investigators, but for the victims and their families as well. Aside from attempting to understand if someone's identifiable group was the target behind a crime, investigators have to think about how hate might play a role in a particular crime. Both investigator and living victim are stressed to identify what motivated a crime.

New manifestations of old hate crimes are pressing forward and needlessly terrorizing groups and individuals.

Hate crimes not only do harm to the individual victims and their families, but they also do damage to the group that the victim identifies with.

Shively and Mulford (2007) bring up an excellent point to keep in mind when thinking about traditional crimes and hate crimes:

In many cases, hate may be seen or perceived by the victims, their families, witnesses, and even law enforcement to be the motivation of a crime, but perpetrators may not be charged with a hate crime for a variety of reasons...(Shively and Mulford 2007)

It is easy to think back to some horrific crimes in the past and know that hate motivated them, but being motivated by hate alone does not make them hate crimes. As one can see, the idea of even being able to label some crime as specifically a hate crime is not an easy task in itself.

Laws have made it more than obvious that hate crimes are a serious problem in today's society, but those laws have not made it easy to rid society of hate crimes. As time moves forward, more effort is being spent on understanding hate crimes; legislators are getting closer to effective solutions for a world with crimes of hate. In the grand scheme of crime and law, hate crime as a prosecutable crime is a new concept. Think of the Nazi's hate and violence toward the Jews, the hate that was acted on in the Rwandan genocide and subsequent killing of around 800,000 individuals and the lynching of an untold number of African-Americans in the 19th and 20th centuries. We look back at these nefarious acts of hate and label them as hate crimes, and that isn't wrong. But when these acts were being committed, they were not labeled as hate crimes. And in today's society there are things being done that, one day, will be considered crimes, and maybe even hate crimes. But, today, unlike the radical groups that wreak havoc on the thousands, there are new manifestations of old hate crimes pressing forward and needlessly terrorizing groups and individuals.

Threatening words written on a locker door, a confrontation between a minority and a local gang in an alley, a midnight phone call speaking impending harm to the residence and a threat spread across social media; these are only a few of today's battles that people struggle with against hate crime. These examples are no less important than the dramatic headlining hate crimes of the past, and talks of how to stop them are constantly on the table. One of the more popular debates in legislative and academic circles is concerned with why hate crimes should be considered any different than traditional crimes. What's the difference if someone is murdered out of hate for their identifiable group or murdered because of other variables? One reason that there has been a push to create a separate category for hate crime is because hate crimes not only do harm to individual victims and their families, but they also do damage to the group that the victims identify with (Canadian Centre for Justice Statistics. 2001). The identification or the perceived identification with a group is the center of a hate crime, without the group identification, hate crimes shift into the traditional crimes category. One of the easiest ways to intimidate or harm a group is by doing so verbally; and some countries have put their foot down against such hate speech. The Criminal Code of Canada, for example, has laws against hate propaganda; so verbally advocating genocide, public incitement of hatred and wilful promotion of hatred is against the law (Government of Canada 2015). Many people are in opposition when laws governing speech is put into action; some say it tampers with their rights of expression. In the recent past, several hate speech cases have been dismissed because the ruling stated that the hate speech accusations were a violation of charter provisions on freedom of expression. But these laws are aimed at strengthening the integrity of the groups that make up society. And only the victims of hate crimes can truly begin to feel why these laws are important.

LEGISLATORS AND LAW ENFORCEMENT CONTINUE TO DISCUSS STRATEGIES ON HOW TO STOP HATE CRIMES.

Hate victims often blame themselves, become resentful of their identity and feel completely isolated from society.

Victims of hate crimes are more than stressed about being a victim of a crime, they feel threatened and persecuted because of who they are, not what they have done. Imagine, for example, being hated because of something someone in your family had done (e.g. fighting in a war) a thousand years ago, or being hated because you have brown eyes and the majority of people have green eyes. Or simply imagine being hated because you were born just the way you were. This does significant damage to individuals, but it also marginalizes the victim's entire group. A person's identity is at risk of damage when they feel that who they are as a human is threatened by a majority. People becoming afraid and ashamed of being themselves is deteriorating to their well-being and mental health. It has been documented in a multitude of scholarly articles that hate crime victims usually suffer a greater post-traumatic experience in contrast to those who experience the same crime without the bias and bigotry. Hate crime victims often blame themselves, become resentful of their identity and feel completely isolated from society. This brings forth an important issue: when someone is a victim and feels like they are less of a person than the rest of society, it is very difficult to seek help and assistance from others in that society.

It becomes a vicious cycle when individuals and groups are persecuted for being themselves, then feel that they can't find proper help, thus leading them into isolation and adding to the marginalization of the group. Hate crime victims need more than justice, they need a society that will integrate them back into the comfort of their admirable identifiable group. They need to feel reassured that their identity is something to be proud of, not something to hide from public view.

In summation, it isn't just the recent years that have brought on hate and the post-traumatic experience associated with being a victim of bigotry; people have experienced the struggle of being hated since the beginning of the first indigenous groups. But only in recent decades has the legal effort of counteracting these mindless crimes been put into motion. Even though the laws have been slow-coming and face with many opponents, these laws are aimed at protecting the sanctity of society and the groups that define it. Understanding modern day hate crime requires a valiant effort on the part of everyone, not just the legislative system. The beginning of help and rehabilitation for the victims and even the criminals of hate crime starts with one thing: knowledge.

APARTMENT CRIME PREVENTION

Information provided by
Edmonton Police Service

HERE ARE SOME CRIME PREVENTION TIPS FOR KEEPING YOURSELF AND YOUR PROPERTY SAFE IF YOU LIVE IN AN APPARTMENT

Building

Never allow strangers into the building as you are entering or exiting. Be aware of suspicious people loitering around the entrance as they may reach for the open door.

Stay alert when entering your apartment complex. Do not become distracted (i.e. talking on your cell phone). Criminals look for a weak target and are more likely to pass up someone who appears focused, aware, and strong.

Never buzz anyone you do not know into the building for any reason. If someone has a legitimate excuse of being inside the complex area, arrangements would have been previously made with the tenant and/or property owner.

Get to know other people who live on your floor so you may be able to identify strangers. Good neighbours look after each other.

Report any poor lit areas such as entranceways, hallways, etc. or any overgrown shrubbery around your complex to the property owner.

Do not list your full name on the tenant directory board.

Suite

Make sure that all the locks have been changed since the last tenants have moved out, as previous tenants may still have copies of keys.

If you lose your keys, immediately replace your locks.

Suite doors should have peepholes. If you do not have one, request that the property owner installs one for you.

Always lock your door even if you will only be out of your suite for a short period. It only takes seconds for a criminal to enter your suite through an unlocked door.

Collect your newspapers and other packages on a daily basis and never let your mailbox overflow.

Keep a broom handle or longer piece of wood in the track of sliding glass doors to prevent exterior doors from being open from the outside.

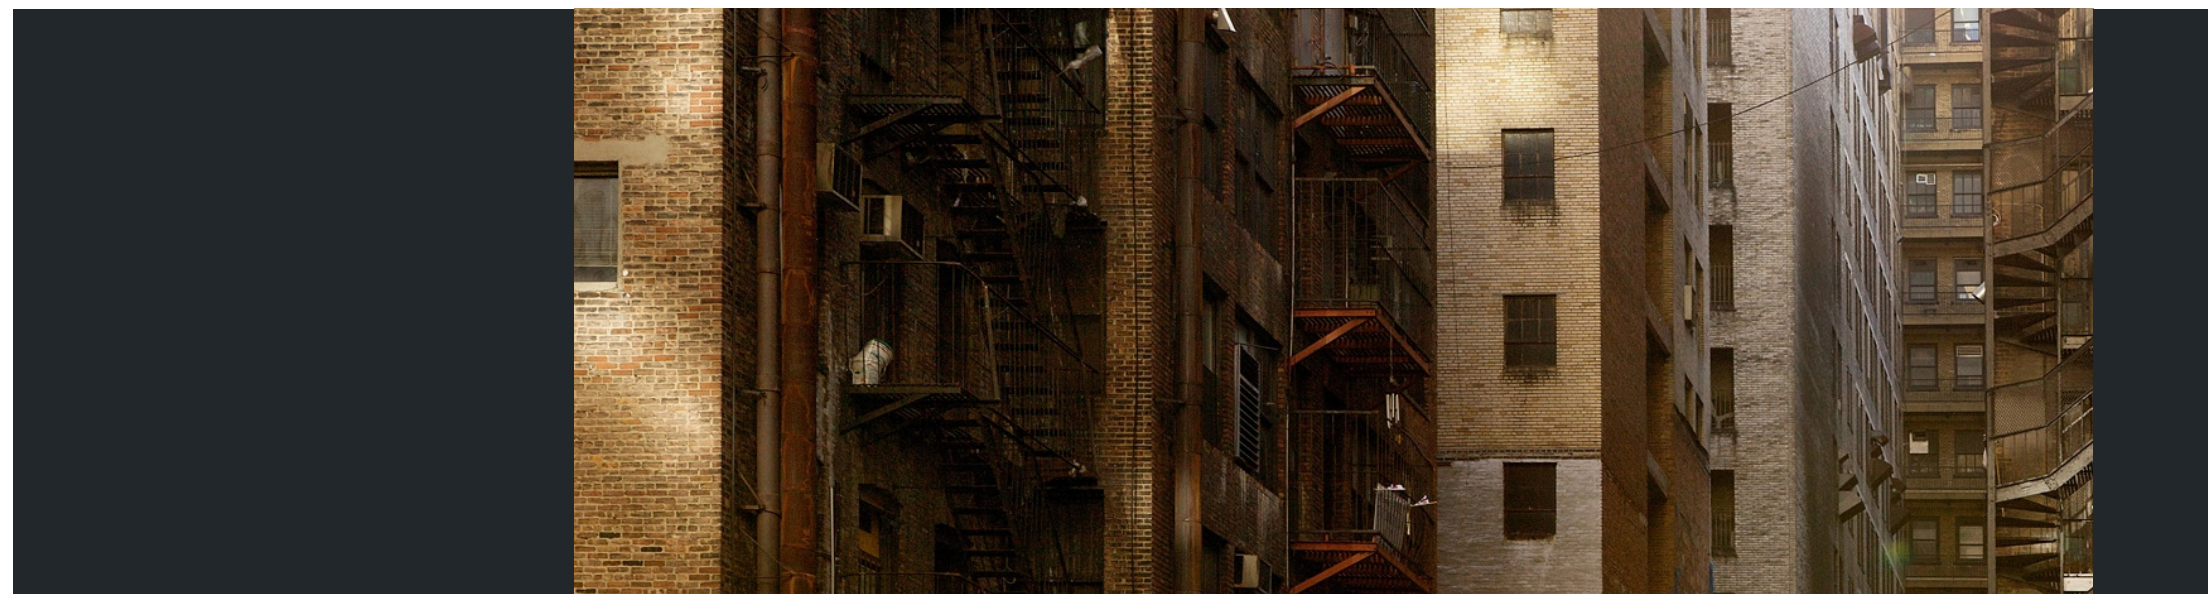

Make a list of your valuables and keep accurate logs, including any identifying factors like serial numbers or engravings.

Elevator Safety

Look to see who is in the elevator before entering. If someone looks suspicious, do not enter and wait for the next one to come.

When inside the elevator, stand near the control panel so you can easily press the alarm/emergency button if necessary.

If a suspicious person enters the elevator when you are already on, exit before the doors close.

ELDER ABUSE

Criminals and scam artists target seniors. Know how to spot the signs and help protect your loved ones.

The CPS Elder Abuse Response Team investigates cases of physical abuse, sexual abuse, emotional abuse, psychological abuse, financial exploitation, neglect, abandonment and family and domestic relationship violence that affects older adults.

Indicators of Financial Elder Abuse:

- Confusion about new legal documents such as a will, power of attorney or a new mortgage
- Seniors' pension monies acting as essential income for extended family members
- Sudden drop in cash flow or financial holdings
- Reluctance to speak about the situation

Financial abuse includes actions that decrease the financial worth of a senior, without benefit to that person.

Scam Prevention Tips for Seniors:

- Don't wire money to anyone until you've confirmed their identity.
- Arrange to have a trusted family member or friend handle all financial matters in the days following the loss of a loved one.
- You can plan and pay for your funeral in advance – but do your research and bring a friend with you.
- Keep your personal information and financial documents locked at home in a safe place.
- Avoid lending money. If someone becomes angry because you've refused them a loan, they may not have your best interests at heart.
- Ensure your donations go only to recognized charities registered with Revenue Canada.

GRANDPARENT SCAMS

Scammers contact victims claiming to be a relative in some sort of trouble. They ask the grandparent to send money and not to tell anyone.

BEREAVEMENT SCAMS

Scammers scour the obituaries and contact victims who recently lost a loved-one, claiming the deceased had unpaid bills or debts that need to be paid right away.

SWEETHEART SCAMS

The scammer befriends the victim online or in-person. While earning their trust, the scammer may gain access to personal and financial information of the victim.

CHARITY SCAMS

Often in the wake of a catastrophe, scammers will set up illegitimate 'relief funds' to help survivors and solicit donations from victims.

Our vision is simply to be a community crime prevention organization that rewards anonymous tipsters while supporting law enforcement partners to solve and stop crime, but we can't do this without your donations.

Please donate to Crime Stoppers so that your program can continue to be a valuable resource in your region. Simply tear out and fill in the back of this page and mail your financial contribution to the address provided.
